

Hi there, whoever IS reading this letter. I was a traveller, i travelled the world, visited many countries, lots of places. I travelled by train, by plane, by car, by ship. On my last voyage, THE heavy storm hit the ship and I ended up on a deserted island. I found a small wooden hut there with one bed, one DESK and nothing more... I feel I am not going to leave this island, so I've decided to share my secret with anyone who would get hold of this letter. I have forgotten where big, big treasure on a different island. I drew a MAP but I have forgotten where i put it. I remember my teacher who showed me a lot of techniques to remember important things, but his ideas, my TEACHER'S ideas just slipped my mind. I can only hope that reading this letter, you are clever, I know you are, enough to find the map and the treasure. In THE meantime, I will be lying UNDER the roof of stars and pray for someone to save me... Lonely Traveller
